Fire Destroys Wright Home Early Tuesday Morning Occupants Barely Escape

No Clothing Saved Cause Is A Mystery

In the intense cold of the early morning hours of last Tuesday the beautiful residence of Dr. and Mrs. Allen H. Wright on Main street became a prey to the fury of flames and was entirely consumed. Nothing remains but the stone foundation and the two large brick chimneys.

The forward part of the house was occupied by the family and the Doctors medical office, the rear portion was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hyde as their home and the garage for two cars was underneath this portion. Both the Doctor and his wife had retired after a strenuous day and were asleep with their daughter in an adjoining room. A little before two o'clock they were awakened to find themselves in a smoke-filled room and cracking sounds in the partitions. They crept out of their room in night apparel, sounded the alarm to Mr. and Mrs. Hyde and rescued their daughter June getting to the street covered with coats. The women were taken to the home of Mrs. N. P. Wood across the street. Mr. Hyde saved his beautiful Scotty dog. The men removed their cars from the garage and took them to places of safety. Responding to a telephone call, members of the fire department under Fire Chief Willis Parker responded with apparatus and laid lines of hose from a nearby hydrant. Meanwhile the fire burned fiercely and despite all the firemen could do the house was burned to the ground and only the chimneys were left standing. While the thermometer was close to zero the wind which had been of gale force in the early evening had subsided and the firemen kept the flames within bounds. No adjoining premises were in danger.

The home was one of the most interesting show places of the town. It was of two stories with a flat roof and sun parlors on each side. The Doctor's office was in the south center and here patients were received and treated. The property was purchased by the Doctor when he came to Northfield from Wilmington, Vt., some ten or twelve years ago from Mrs. Lucius Mason of New York City who had acquired the property some years previous and had made extensive repairs and improvements for her use as residence. It was a single family house but a portion toward the rear was set aside and rented as an apartment. Mr. and Mrs. Hyde being the present occupants. The loss is fully covered by insurance, both on the building, its contents and furnishings.

It proved to be the largest single fire loss in Northfield for many years and perhaps one of the largest for any residence in the county. That both families were not overcome by smoke seems almost miraculous. Just how or where the fire started may never be known but it seemed to be located in the early period of its discovery about the Doctor's office. Wherever it did start it rapidly made its way into the partitions until the whole place became an inferno.

Firemen remained pouring a stream of water on the smoldering ruins until nearly noon on Tuesday and hundreds of citizens wended their way to Main street to view the disaster, after the news had spread.

Dr. and Mrs. Wright and their daughter June with Mr. and Mrs. Hyde were outfitted by kind friends and neighbors and later they went to Greenfield to purchase new wearing apparel.

Following the fire neighbors and friends made arrangements for the families' accommodation. Adjusters representing the fire insurance companies who carried the insurance on the property and its contents belonging to the members of the Wright and Hyde families were in town Thursday morning. Dr. and Mrs. Wright and their daughter June will go to Boston today for a brief rest and to secure the needed furniture and fittings for the Doctor's office which he will open soon in the center of the town. The family will occupy the home of Dr. A. N. Thompson. The Press will inform the public next week of the re-opening and hours of the Doctor's new office when he will resume his practice.

She leaves five sisters, Annie and Elizabeth Campbell of East Northfield, Mrs. Frank Edgell and Margaret Campbell of New York City, and Mrs. John Wall of Nashua, N. George C. Stebbins Has 92nd Birthday Worker With Moody

Perhaps no other composer of evangelistic hymns is better known to Northfield folks, to church workers and attendants at the summer conferences than George C. Stebbins who has written some 1500 hymns. He has been a frequent visitor here and each summer he has been greeted by his many friends. He was associated with Dwight L. Moody in his great work and with Ira D. Sankey assisted in the establishing of the General conference. For the past four years Mr. Stebbins has made his home with his sister, Mrs. Ella S. Miller at Catskill, N. Y., and last Saturday observed the 92nd anniversary of his birth. Telegrams and letters poured in upon him and many were sent from Northfield friends. Although now partially deaf, Mr. Stebbins, plays the piano, continues his hymn writing and listens in much to the radio.

Born on a farm in Carlton, Orleans County, N. Y., Mr. Stebbins became director of music in the First Baptist church in Chicago in 1870, and later was musical director for the Clarendon Street Baptist church and the Tremont Temple Baptist church in Boston.

He began his evangelistic work with Mr. Moody in 1876. He thrice traveled to England with Mr. Moody and the late Ira D. Sankey, and spent two winters with Mr. Moody on the Pacific coast.

At the Bible conferences started by Mr. Moody in Northfield in 1880, Mr. Stebbins assisted Mr. Sankey as musical director and later became director himself.

Maple Sugar Time Early This Year

Maple sugar time is about two weeks earlier than usual this year and already many have set their buckets in the maple orchards. Col. Prentice has placed two thousand buckets on his estate near Williamstown and reports from Vermont and from Maine are that this work is now being started. Maple trees are tapped on the south and east side which gets the maximum sunlight and the freezing cold with the warm sunny days are conducive to the flow of the sap. Under ordinary conditions it takes thirty one gallons of sap to produce a gallon of syrup and this can be transformed into 8 pounds of sugar. The taking of sap began two centuries ago when the Indian showed the white man the art of making maple sugar. Today farmers are planting maple orchards and the business has proved most profitable. Vermont farmers are specializing in maple syrup and the demand each year increases for the product. No wide-spread operations exist about Northfield although plenty of amateurs are out with the buckets.

FAREWELL FEBRUARY

Goodbye, goodbye short month,
You surely disappointed me,
You were no winter nor no spring
In fact you knew not what to be.
You might have brought some snow,
To hide the withered fields of brown,
In feathery clouds of white
Softly drifting, whirling down.
When you essayed the role of spring
Your days were failures in this part
For not one blue bird did you bring
Nor did a flower start.
So February fare thee well,
Let March come blustering in,
I'll miss you not—get out
And let the spring begin.

Sage Chapel Work Is Progressing And Soon Completed

Work at Sage chapel on the Seminary campus is rapidly progressing and will soon be completed. The chancel alcove construction was finished some time ago and the stone used which was secured from a quarry at Weymouth is a good match to that used in the construction of the chapel itself.

Interior wood work is being placed into position and the panels and moldings are of a brown sepia coloring. The organ has arrived from the Estey works and is placed in its position. The floor is being manded and waxed and the seats erected for the choir.

These improvements which are provided by Mrs. Wilfred W. Fry in memory of her husband who was formerly President of the Northfield Schools will add a dignity to the appearance of the interior, inspire reverence and lend character to the services. The Editor when surveying the work accomplished and the results attained, last week, was much impressed with the cathedral impression which the changes induce and feels sure that with the re-opening of the chapel for use, those attending will be gratified and express full appreciation in the new arrangement.

National Used Car Week Begins Saturday

A national drive to sweep the American automobile industry out of the current recession and stimulate American business generally will be undertaken by every American automobile manufacturer and the nation's 46,000 automobile dealers.

The campaign, to be known as National Used Car Exchange Week is scheduled for March 5 to 12, is an outgrowth of recent conferences at the White House between President Roosevelt and leaders of the automobile industry. The President has been advised of plans for the campaign, which is the first cooperative effort ever undertaken in which all American automobile manufacturers have taken part.

The campaign is timed at the outset of the spring selling season when both new and used cars usually begin to move in greatest volume. It is aimed primarily at stimulating the disposal of used car stocks now in dealer hands. Once this is accomplished, a substantial increase in car manufacturing schedules and employment of wage earners in the automobile factories is anticipated.

To support the campaign the manufacturers will spend $1,250,000 in newspaper, radio and outdoor advertising and in other promotional channels. Two-thirds of the advertising budget will be spent in newspapers. See the advertisements in this week's Press and select a car.

Dr. Fairbank Speaks At Local Church On Sunday Morning

Characterized by an associate as "the greatest living district missionary under the American Board today," Dr. Edward Fairbank of Vadala, India, and now a resident of Northfield will bring a message of interpretation of the work and the people of the Marathi area. He will speak Sunday morning in the East Northfield Congregational church and everyone will be cordially invited to hear him.

When Dr. Fairbank first reached India there was an absence of any suitable books to enable a student to start learning the Marathi language. With the ability and initiative which has characterized all his years of service, Dr. Fairbank determined to remedy that lack by writing a textbook himself!

Dr. Edward Fairbank

As a District Superintendent Dr. Fairbank has had to touch all kinds of work. From the opening of the Vadala district it has been supervised by a Fairbank. His father and grandfather before him worked there and Dr. Fairbank was born in Kodakanal. Being a rural section Dr. Fairbank has guided the agricultural and village reconstruction work and seen it develop under the leadership of his son, Robert W. Fairbank.

His efforts were by no means restricted to the Christian community. Hindus, Christians, and Moslems alike claim Dr. Fairbank as their friend.

When the Fairbanks left India recently they were given dozens of farewell receptions and many gifts.

Eleanor Fry Wed To R. H. Decker, Jr.

Miss Eleanor K. Fry daughter of the late Wilfred W. Fry and Mrs. Fry of Camden, N. J., was married to Randall H. Decker, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall H. Decker of Montclair, N. J., at the home of the brides mother "Ayer House" last Saturday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Eugene C. Carder of the Riverside church in New York.

The bride, who was escorted by her brother, Wayland Ayer Fry, wore a gown of ivory-colored satin made with a yoke of duchess and rose point lace that had embellished her mother's wedding gown. Her veil of tulle fell from a coronet of the same lace and she carried a bouquet of white orchids combined with lilies of the valley. Mrs. Ronald Bree was matron of honor for her sister.

Randall H. Decker was best man for his son. After a wedding trip Mr. Decker and his bride will make their home in Leominster, Mass.

Captured A Fox

Quite recently, while on his way home from the Pine street school, Philip, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Howe of the Hinsdale road, was about the vicinity of Wanamaker Pond when he spied a young gray fox and easily caught it with his hands. It was a rather young fox and wearied for the want of food and made no objection to being picked up and taken to the young man's home where he was given shelter and something to eat. The fox is being cared for now on collar and chain and doesn't object to being taken about. Many of the residents, particularly the summer folks will be delighted to see the animal if he can be kept that long before being liberated.

He: Oh, pardon me for stepping on your feet.

She: Not at all—that's what they were made for.

"Find Yourself" Students Are Advised By Prominent Men

The Find Yourself Week-end at Mount Hermon school began Wednesday with an address by President Ernest M. Headmaster Porter, who has arranged for this helpful program, which is an annual affair, stated the need today for as many young people as possible to discover early in their careers just what sort of activity they are best fitted for. It is particularly urgent in these days of much unemployment for each one to find himself and then push forward toward that educational end.

Zero temperatures, snow and high gales sent February out with a rush and the weather has been so uppermost in our minds that business men say too many of us are "stay-at-homes" these days. Well that late blizzard of Monday was enough to make us all feel uncomfortable. There was in addition snow to shovel, drifts to tackle and fires to feed.

Hears About Japan

At The Church Club
Meeting Tuesday Eve.

Japan's attitude toward the United States is one of mingled gratitude and resentment, Rev. William P. Woodard, of the American Board of Foreign Missions told members of the Franklin County Congregational club at their annual meeting at the Mansion house Tuesday evening. Quite a large number of the members from Northfield were present.

Mr. Woodard said that the Japanese were grateful to this country for its part in opening Japan to international trade and for the Red Cross assistance given after earthquake disasters. Her feeling of resentment, suspicion and fear, however, arose from what she believes to have been unfair treaties and particularly because of the exclusion act of 1924.

Mr. Woodard declared that the United States might improve this attitude by becoming better itself, so that it will win the deeper respect of the Japanese and by maintaining cultural, intellectual and religious contacts with Japan regardless of how we feel toward her policy of aggression.

"Japan is ambitious," he concluded, "and she is determined to make herself the equal of any nation in the world. Nothing will stop her. You can't crush seventy million people."

At the business meeting preceding the address Rev. Harold S. Hannum of Shelburne Falls was elected president, with other officers being the following: Vice-president, Dr. H. M. gram of music was given and a mock wedding ceremony with R. E. Bruce and Ginnie Bruce as bridegroom and bride was presented. Alfred Lackey was the minister. It proved to be a most entertaining part of the program. Mr. and Mrs. Darling were given a purse by the Grange the presentation being made by the Master, E. W. Dunklee. Refreshments were served to all and a social time followed.

TWO FACTS!

There is a great need for better lighting in nearly every home. Poor light is one reason why:

1 out of 5 school children have defective vision;

3 out of 5 adults at 40 have defective vision.

For better sight, consult an eye specialist regularly to correct eye troubles and—help prevent eye-strain with Better Home Lighting.

Good lighting is NOT expensive. If, for example, you replace a 60-watt bulb with a 100-watt bulb, you will get twice as much light (because of its higher efficiency) at an extra cost of only 1/4 of a cent per hour's use. Good eyes are precious; good light is cheap.

Many are 1937, '36 and '35 models — backed by the finest of dealer guarantees. All have thousands of miles of first-class unused transportation in them.

And the "first-class" transportation of these modern cars represents satisfaction which the owners of older cars can hardly imagine. Beautiful, modern styling — a more comfortable ride — more room for you and your luggage — finer, more powerful engines — better gas mileage — better brakes — bigger tires — dozens of improvements introduced since your old car was built.

Now's the time to make the switch, while you have more to trade and less to pay. Your present car may cover the down-payment — balance on easy terms. If you have no car to trade, you can still take advantage of the low down-payments and easy terms during this sale.

There will be an old-fashioned dance at Union hall in Northfield Farms this Friday evening under the auspices of the Farm Ladies Benevolent society.

Rev. Arthur P. Pratt of the Second Congregational church of Greenfield will be the speaker at vespers in Mt. Hermon chapel Sunday.

Hermon B. Fisher has been chosen for the grand jury and Robert D. Ware for the traverse jury at this coming session of superior court in Greenfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Newton were called to Troy, N. Y. last week Thursday by the death of Mr. Newton's mother, Mrs. Willard Binck. Sympathy of friends is extended to him.

"Yale-Harvard" Event

The annual "Yale-Harvard" basketball game, traditional sports event of the winter season at the Seminary, will be played off on Saturday afternoon, March 12. The two teams are selected from the best players on campus, and the entire school divides into Yale or Harvard fans. The Harvard songs and those of old Eli are rehearsed and the girls and their mascots (teddy bears, woolly bunnies, scottie dogs, etc.) attend the game wearing Yale's bright blue or Harvard's crimson.

CHRIST FOR ALL-ALL FOR CHRIST
The Word of God

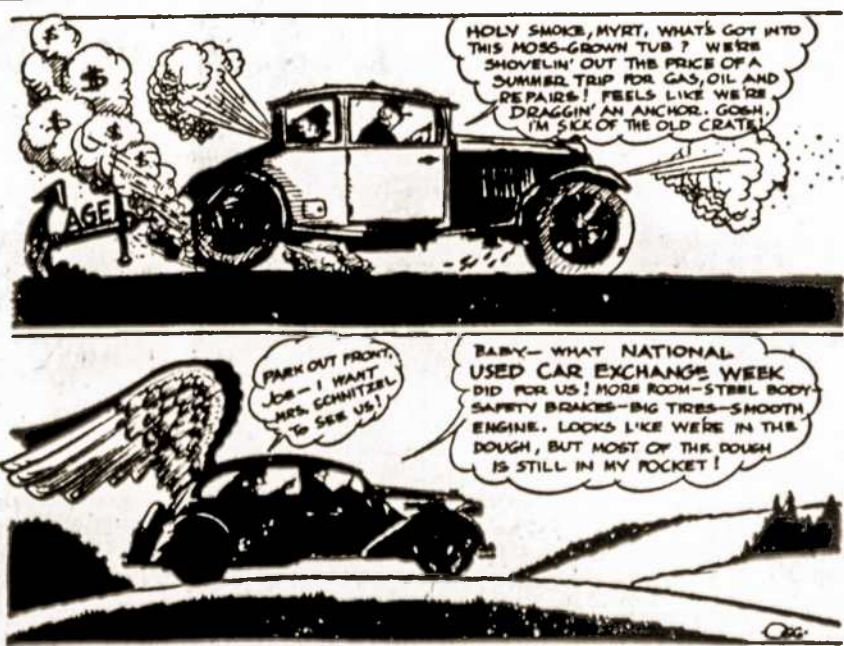

The word is a lamp unto my feet, a light unto my path.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Does your example inspire others? Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house. Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven. —Matthew 5:15, 16.

Friend of the poor: He shall deliver the needy when he crieth; the poor also, and him that hath no helper. He shall spare the poor and needy, and shall save the souls of the needy. He shall redeem their soul from deceit and violence; and precious shall their blood be in his sight. —Psalm 135:12-14.

EDITORIAL

Tuesday morning was a cold time to arouse that paid volunteer fire-fighting force of our town from their snug and warm beds, but when the call came they gladly and willingly responded to a man. Despite the handicaps of weather conditions they rendered yeoman service and once more proved that they can be counted upon when emergency calls. Whenever I read of a fire and recount what is said of the work of the firemen, I always feel confident that our town is also honored with the same kind of loyalty and devotion to duty in the membership of its fire department.

One of our readers asks if something cannot be done with reference to stray cats. Many are left to shift for themselves without care and so begin to prey upon our birds. Well the answer is simply this and that answer—that people are sometimes so inhuman as not to care for their pets and fail to assume responsibility. Careless and indifferent are many. If you want an animal see that it is well cared for and well fed. A thin, skinny, gaunt animal, no matter of what kind always is the index of the character and humanity of its owner.

The Press this week begins a columnist column which will continue in series. It will deal largely with local matters or of such news with which we are familiar. The column is written by one of our citizens to make us think and in the words of Elbert Hubbard, "those who can't take it, had better not." At any rate the Editor of the Press will be glad of any criticism or suggestions regarding the innovation. It will not be personal, but sometimes the "shoe will fit." There will be satire and some things very humorous.

Health Talks

THE SQUEEZE!

The Back Yard Gardener

Dainty and exquisite, of crimson hue, here are some perennials that will grow for you. Bold and aggressive, they sparkle and gleam and make the old corners look like dreams.

That wasn't so hot, was it? But you get what I mean. We back yard gardeners may not have money enough to spend the winter in Florida and the summer in the mountains or at the seashore, but at least we can have something that is just as good for the soul.

A couple of weeks ago I suggested a list of annuals and so here's a list of perennials attested to by my good side-kick Dave Arnold. We disagree on some things but when it comes to flowers of harmony, I am sure.

Starting off at the top of the alphabet, we suggest, hardy asters. And there are so many excellent ones that I'm going to pass up any particular variety, letting you select according to your color tastes.

Then we suggest one of the newer buddleias, particularly Hartwegi. These are certainly beautiful flowers for your garden.

Of course a perennial garden should include chrysanthemums and so there we've decided that you ought to try some of the Korean hybrids. King Midas is a nice yellow; Ember is an orange color; and the Moor is a port wine red so called. I think the last one is exceptionally good.

Another perennial which Dave suggested but which I know little about is the hybrid aubretias. He suggests the pink varieties. Select them when they are in bloom. Campanula carpatica is a mighty excellent plant for rockeries and borders. Galardias seem to be gaining in popularity so we are including them in our list. Ruby and Mr. Sherbrook are two. Use them in a sunny spot.

If you are looking for something rather interesting, try some of the new double pyrethrum. Lady Dawn is old rose, Lady Garnet is a red, and Lady Sylvia is a creamy white.

Gypsophila paniculata (Bristol Fairy) is a perennial that will give you thick broad cushions of downy foliage with great masses of flowers almost pure white. Try this in a sunny spot in your rock garden, and I think you will be pleasantly surprised.

Of course, we can't get along without some of our German iris and for three varieties we are suggesting Alameda, Ambassadeur, and Taj Mahal. Those three are recent introductions in the German group.

If you love delphiniums, you want to try some of the so-called hollyhock delphiniums. Here again we decided to leave the choice of color to you. But I will say if you want beautiful color try some of the (new) Russell hybrids of the lupines.

Well, that's quite a list, but we want to recommend one or two more. The Japanese balloon flower, botanically speaking Platycodon grandiflorum, is one; another is primula acaulis, the popular variety name for the one we like being Lavender Queen, a double-flowered one. And of course, be sure to include some of the violas, particularly Apricot Queen, and Arkwright's Ruby. Other than those two we hesitate to suggest particular varieties.

The newly-weds had just got off the train:
She: John dear, let's try to make the people think we've been married a long time.
He: All right, honey, you carry the suitcases.

THEY SAY

Teruel has fallen—18 times.

There is a persistent rumor that three men were found a few mornings ago, wandering thru the woods on Northfield mountain. When questioned they said that for two days they had been looking for the office of the Welfare commissioner. They were nearly starved and suffered greatly from exposure.

Why should England send money to Rome?
If they've money stored up at home
Why not send it over to pay
Their moldy bills to the U.S.A.?
—Saham J.

What this country needs are more sabers to rattle; a broadcasting station and an announcer, with a bellow like a bull, to let the world know that we are building 10 battleships a month, ordering broods of airships, and schools of submarines. We should fight an undeclared war in Iceland and Tierra Del Fuego; slam sanctions against the Galapagos Islands, and blockade Nantucket. Before we do this, however, we should adopt some distinguishing shirt—all up-to-date nations have shirts, if nothing else—the color and pattern to be decided by popular vote. As the other great nations have used up all the silly names for their forms of government we will have to go on living under the present form of Idiocracy. If we follow these lines of procedure we will not need to feel that we are an antiquated nation. (We would like the views of our gentle readers on this subject.—Ed.)

HOW COME?
One day we know that spring is here,
The next we know it's winter.
The next, a tail-spin into June
Is what this world gozinter.
—Sally

Special Bulletin — Hendeaye,
Spanish frontier: Teruel has fallen.

Bird Notes. A correspondent tells us that spring is here as he has seen a crow. We have a letter this morning saying that there have been unusually large flocks of crows here all winter. (A crow is quite a sizeable black bird that is seen now and then, perhaps. Ed.)

This morning we were chatting with a young lady from East Northfield, and during our conversation, we chanced upon the subject of birds; greatly to our surprise she informed us that, a few days ago, she had seen an eagle. We asked where and was told that the bird was sedately strolling thru the woods on Strowbridge hill. Rather sceptical we made further inquiries and asked for a description of the bird and, to our surprise, we learned that it was wearing a brown shirt. For the time being we will close our bird notes.

Mussolini, Hitler, too,
Keep old England in a stew—
Englishmen are very quaint,
Where Eden was is now alint.

State Planning Board

Do you know that . . . the General Court has approved a reforestation program under which 500,000 acres of forest land are to be acquired by the State during the next twenty years . . . Within a short time the land utilization survey conducted under the direction of the State Planning board will be completed with more than 300 towns mapped and placed on public record . . . The first state housing enterprise in Continental America was undertaken by Massachusetts . . . Through-out the State there are approximately 1,990 overnight cabins housing 5562 persons . . . According to the last census 90 towns, or over one-fourth of the total number in the Commonwealth, have less than twenty-five percent of their area in farming . . . In two decades the total value of the Commonwealth's agricultural output increased from $47,000,000 to over $80,000,000 . . . The major part of the area of the Bay State is covered by woodland totalling approximately 3,000,000 acres . . . University extension courses last year enrolled 30,784 and operated at a per-pupil cost of $0.355 . . . and . . . adult alien education courses enrolled 11,488—the result of a steady decline from 28,003 in 1935 . . . Private welfare agencies are supervised by the state to the extent that they must have charters, must report annually, and must submit to an examination of their records . . . The Metropolitan Park Commission and the Water Supply and Sewerage Board were established in 1890.
